GRAND VISION

The team will be divided into sub-groups, each of which will paint a small section of canvas. When joined together, a giant piece of artwork is revealed.

When asked what their company's vision is, many employees cannot often recall clearly. This team building activity aims to create a memorable picture – literally – that will keep the vision fresh for every participant.

As groups work on their own section of the image, they must communicate closely with other groups to match colours and designs so that the pieces connect seamlessly. Collaboration has never been so colourful!
